

Are we the most stupid animals on the planet? We foul our own nests, we foul everyone else's nest, and we are so short sighted as to assume someone else will clean up after us. One of the reasons that cars were such a boon in the early 20th Century, was because the big cities couldn't handle the mountains of horse poo that they were accumulating. Now we face the same problem with fossil fuels! Do we have a vision for the environment for our children and grand-children? Or are we so duped by the almighty dollar, that we will sell our souls for one night in Paradise, and the devil take the rest?

Please take immediate action to address the climate crisis, or don't be surprised if our children and grand-children sue us for endangering their future.

The climate crisis is here and now. For example, our neighbours in the Pacific face rising sea levels that force them off their land and rising temperatures will force delivery trucks off bitumen roads, leading to food shortages. It is well past time for every country to take action on climate.
